

New England HOME

Celebrating Fine Design, Architecture, and Building

THE NEW MOOD:
COZY, CHIC &
COMFORTABLE

September - October 2019

$6.95

10>

Display until November 18, 2019
nehomemag.com

DRAMATIC EFFECT

Longstanding clients asked architect Ruth Bennett and interior designer Gerald Pomeroy to renovate their Lexington, Massachusetts, home, making space for a luxurious new master bathroom. "Because the couple are extremely well-traveled, and respond well to color, texture, and form, I wanted to do something slightly exotic in nature," says Pomeroy. His starting point was iridescent glass mosaic tiles for the walls and—laid in a wheel pattern—on the floor. The bathroom is "classic in general terms," says Pomeroy, "but the tiles drove me to pick unique forms and unusual lighting." He also incorporated additional reflective elements, such as the hammered crystal chandelier and the shiny metal stool that sits by the tub.

The slipper tub floats before a wide window dressed in a roman shade of shimmery raw silk. Architect Bennett designed the double-sink vanity with diamond detailing on the trim and cabinet doors.

CREDITS

Architecture: Ruth Bennett,
RBA Architecture

Interior design: Gerald Pomeroy,
Gerald Pomeroy Interiors

Builder: Preston Lemanski,
Lemanski Construction Company

Photography: Eric Roth

